Welcome

Dear Friends,

We are happy to present the Esagon course scheduled for early 2017, dedicated to Ovarian Cancer:

“Radical Surgery in Advanced Ovarian Cancer: Old but still the Gold Standard”

We will deal with the current and high prognostic value that, despite of the extraordinary breakthrough we have witnessed in the field of biological sciences, no therapeutic strategy has so far reached.

The course is organised as follows:

- Two simultaneous live surgery sessions in the morning in two different ORs, performed and commented on by surgeons from different medical schools. Participants will have the opportunity to ask questions to understand each surgical step.
- Following the live surgery sessions, will be two round tables:
 - “Please Learn How to Operate or Don’t Touch Patients with Advanced Ovarian Cancer” – about the essential requirements necessary for adequate surgical treatment.
 - “Tailoring surgery for a personalized approach” - will deal with the issue of directing our patients towards specially designed (diversely modulated) therapeutic strategies, particularly considering the current development of our biological knowledge.

The excellent faculty, whose members represent the best international surgical schools, include:

- William Cliby - Mayo Clinic
- Robert Bristow - University of California-Irvine
- Andreas Du Bois - Kliniken Essen Mitte
- Dennis Chi - Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center
- Michel Birrer - Massachussets General Hospital

Don’t miss this unique opportunity. Join us to listen to, watch, and talk about what is at present the most important therapeutic moment for a patient facing advanced ovarian cancer.
